POLICE AND STRIKERS IN CLASH

SEATTLE STRIKERS DEFIANT

(By Associated Press)
Seattle, Feb. 10.—Municipal authorities headed by Mayor Hanson and assisted by business men turned their attention today to plans for resuming the cities industrial and commercial activity which have been deranged since last Thursday by a general strike of approximately 55,000 union men and women. All industries affected by the strike would be resumed with or without the aid of union workers, Mayor Hanson said, and if need be, the city authorities would import workers from other sections. A collapse of the strike movement was confidently expected despite the action of the strikers conference committee in refusing to yield on the question of returning to work. Three arrests were made yesterday in connection with the distribution of copies of an I. W. W. publication. The paper had articles dealing with a proposed nation-wide strike. Tacoma's general strike called to support the wage demands made by shipyard metal workers on Puget Sound was called off yesterday.

THE WEATHER

SUFFRAGE BILL IN U. S. SENATE MAY PASS TODAY

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Feb. 10.—Another effort to pass the equal suffrage constitutional amendment resolution was made today in the Senate. Advocates of the measure were hopeful of winning over the one additional vote which would give the required two-thirds majority, while opponents were confident that the resolution will again fail. The Senate convened with galleries crowded. So great was the demand for seats that admission was by card only. Holders of those went to the Capitol early to await the calling of the resolution by Senator Jones of New Mexico, Chairman of the special suffrage committee.

SPARTACANS ARE RIOTING IN ZURICH

(By Associated Press)
Zurich, Feb. 10.—Grave Spartacan disorders broke out in Berlin on Saturday evening according to addresses received here. Soldiers and sailors commanded by former Chief of Police Eshkorn are reported to have occupied Alexander Platz. Government troops opened fire upon them, 5 persons being killed and 40 wounded. German censorship is withholding details.

The new North End drug store will open shortly.

Our Classified Ads Bring Results.

(By Associated Press)
Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 10.—An increase in the number of operatives reporting for work in the textile mills was announced today but leaders of the movement for 13 hours work with 54 hours pay declared the strike still in full effect. The returning workers were largely English speaking. After the workers had gone into the mills and the gates had been closed, a lively encounter developed between police and strikers. A group of men and women holding a street corner meeting resisted an order from the police to move on. The police reinforced were obliged to use drastic means to disperse the crowd. Clubs were drawn and a number of strike sympathizers were knocked down by blows on the shoulders. A man and a woman were arrested. Two store windows were broken in the crush. Strike pickets were on duty as usual at the mills but there were no disturbances. Several women were arrested early in the morning in the Arlington district for having stones in their hands though no instances of actual stone throwing were reported.

SPARK FROM STOVE STARTS FIRE IN WORK TRAIN CAR

An alarm sent in from Box 9 at 11:35 on Saturday night called the fire department to the Boston and Maine yard off Maplewood avenue where a blaze was confined to one of the cars of the railroad boarding train in which wood and truck tools were stored. The cause of the fire is thought to have been a spark coming from a stove in the next car which was carried by the wind through the ventilator in the roof into the wood pile of the other car. The car was damaged considerably. The fire hardly required the sounding of a general alarm, as the chemical engine crew and railroad section men stopped the blaze in a short time.

ESCAPED PRISONER ARRESTED ON B. & M. PASSENGER TRAIN

Arthur Forsey who escaped from the police here by walking out of the court room on Saturday with some witnesses, is again in the toils. Forsey after getting away walked to Hampton and on Sunday morning boarded the Boston train which leaves this city at 8:23 a. m. He was recognized by Maurice Quinn, Edwin Hinch, Arthur Clifford and William H. Colby, guards at the Atlantic Company shipyard, who placed him under arrest and brought him to Newburyport where they turned him over to the police of that city. Forsey put up a stiff battle with the guards who were required to rough it with him to get the hysterical on. Deputy Chief Decker brought him back from Newburyport on Sunday afternoon and placed him in jail to await the superior court on the charge of larceny.

RIGGART SIGNS CONTRACT WITH BOSTON BRAVES

(By Associated Press)
Boston, Feb. 10.—The Boston National Baseball Club today announced that outfielder Riggart who was drafted last fall from the St. Paul club had signed a contract.

RUSSIAN SITUATION LEFT TO JAPAN

(By Associated Press)
Vladivostok, Saturday, Feb. 8.—Reports from Omsk state that the Russian government there has accepted an offer from Japan of men, money and arms to settle the Bolshevik differently. This step, it is stated, is due to the report that the allies are to withdraw their forces from Siberia and fear that the Bolsheviks will be recognized by the Entente. Reports state Japan will secure an iron and coal concession.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE VOTED DOWN

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Feb. 10.—The amendment for women's suffrage failed to pass the Senate today by one vote. The official vote was 55 for and 29 against the amendment, making the total vote one short of the necessary two-thirds to pass.

U. S. REGULARS ARE IN CHARGE OF BUTTE STRIKE

(By Associated Press)
Butte, Mont., Feb. 10.—Strikers in the mines of Butte who object to the recent reduction of $1.00 a day in wages, were held up on their way to picket the mines today by guards of U. S. soldiers. These men who decided to go to work were permitted to pass. Discharged soldiers who still wore army uniforms were among those doing picket duty for the strikers. They were singled out by the regular army men and ordered immediately to discard their uniforms or cease participating in the attempted picketing.

54 I. W. W. MEN WILL BE DEPORTED

(By Associated Press)
Chicago, Feb. 10.—Eighty-four members of the Industrial Workers of the World passed through Chicago last night in a special train, under a heavy guard, on the way to an Atlantic port where it is said they will be deported at once by immigration authorities. Forty of them came from Seattle where it is alleged they took part in fomenting the general strike which has paralyzed industry in that city for several days. Three leaders of the Seattle strike, I. Spokane agitator, an I. W. W. leader from Denver, 6 alien convicts arrested in Chicago and 1 woman were among the prisoners.

WOULD REQUIRE JITNEYS TO GIVE $5,000 BOND

House Bill No. 155 better known as the Jitney Bill now before the Committee on Judiciary at Concord calls for a bond of $5,000 from those who engage in the transportation of passengers. The bill also provides against operating on the highway where electric car lines are in operation without petition and public hearing before the public service commission. The bill was introduced by Mr. Brown of Concord and reads as follows:

Section 1. Every person, firm or corporation operating any motor vehicle other than a street car upon any public street or way in the business of transporting passengers for hire, and receiving and discharging passengers along a regular route over which the vehicle is operated, is hereby declared to be a common carrier and as such shall be subject to the provisions of this act so far as applicable thereto.

Section 2. No such person, firm or corporation shall conduct the business defined in section 1 of this act along any portion of a public highway in which a street railway is located and operated or between points which are connected by an operating street railway, unless upon petition and public hearing thereof the public service commission shall determine that the public good requires that such person, firm or corporation should engage in such business. The public service commission, by general or special order, may provide such reasonable rules and regulations for the conduct of such business as they may consider in the public interest; and every such person, firm or corporation shall comply with such rules and regulations. Every such person, firm or corporation, before engaging in such business, shall file a bond in the sum of five thousand dollars in such form and with such sureties as the public service commission may approve, providing for the payment of damages caused to any person or property through any fault or negligence in the operation of any such motor vehicle.

Section 3. Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this act shall upon conviction thereof be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars.

Section 4. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder troubles you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in the blood so no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

INSURANCE COMMISSIONER ELWELL DEAD

Insurance Commissioner Rufus N. Elwell died on Sunday night at his home in Concord, after an illness of a week or more with influenza which developed into pneumonia.

Col. Elwell has been one of the best known men of the state, and with a great many friends in all walks of life. He was born in Detroit, Me., Aug. 21, 1861, the son of George H. and Hannah Elwell, and he got his early education at the Maine central institute. He later went into the lumber business, an interest that he maintained thru life, at his death having an interest in the Wadleigh and Elwell Lumber company. His principal business however has been insurance and he has been active in that for many years. His home is in Exeter, where he was prominent in town and county affairs.

He was a staunch republican and was a member of the legislature for six terms and speaker for a term. He was a candidate for Congress, but was defeated by Cyrus Salloway. He was appointed Insurance Commissioner by Governor Keyes and he has been a very efficient and popular official.

He served as Collector of Customs in this city for seven years and was a member of Gov. Tuttle staff. He leaves a wife and two sons George W. an attorney at Boston and Clinton in the insurance business with his father.

No formal charge has been made, but the two students have been held under guard at a hotel since they were brought back from New York, the day following the finding of the bodies of the Chinese commission, were today transferred to the fall officials state that after an all night questioning at the Mission house, that Wan confessed that he had written Dr. Wong's name on the stub of his check book and had attempted to cash a check for $2,000 but had been unsuccessful.

SUFFS' STILL ACTING BAD IN WASHINGTON

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Feb. 9.—Sixty-five members of the National Women's party were arrested today by the military and civilian police, after they had burned President Wilson in effigy in front of the White House, on account of his stand and the fear that they would lose out in the vote in the senate on the Susan B. Anthony amendment tomorrow.

ALL AMERICAS ONE REPUBLIC

Washington, Feb. 9.—Suggestion that the sphere of action of the Pan-American union be extended to the settlement of boundary and other disputes between nations of the Americas is made by Senor Don Ignacio Calderon, Bolivian Minister to the United States, in a pamphlet published today by the United States government.

Prediction is made by the minister that "the day will come when the American republics, instead of quarreling about boundaries, will abolish them and form one great confederation."

tion based on the ideals that awaken in our soul the love of liberty, justice and peace, and of whatever is generous, beautiful and divine."
"Internal disturbances, fortunately disappearing," Senor Calderon asserts "have in no small degree contributed to the backwardness of some of the republics. Revolutions and military dictatorships have been a blight, but under the American League of Nations they could be suppressed by agreements that, without infringing on the sovereignty of any country would discourage all irregular governments and more especially the unfortunate practice of presidential re-election by fraud and imposition."

NAVY PLANNING ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Washington, Feb. 9.—Navy aviation experts are planning a flight across the Atlantic. Commander John H. Towers was ordered today to take charge of the development of plan and assembly of material and power.

not for the proposed trans-Atlantic flight."
Commander Towers has been on duty in the Bureau of Naval Operations with special assignment to aviation. He has been in charge of the Naval Reserve Flying Corps and is considered one of the experts of the service in this branch.

Details as to how far the Navy's plans have progressed have not been disclosed, but it is learned that a great deal of attention has been given to the project and that recent published reports of other similar plans by the British Naval Aviation Service have lent great impetus to the work on this side.

While it is not known what equipment it is planned to use in the flight or when it will be attempted, it is recalled that the Navy Department, during the war, developed a monster seaplane equipped with three Liberty motors, giving it in the neighborhood of 1200-horsepower.

This machine has as its body a substantially built boat and has carried as high as 51 persons in flights of considerable length. Within the last few weeks it has been repeatedly tested along the Atlantic Coast with success.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody can Tell when you Darken Gray, Faded Hair with Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. It is so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears after another application or two. It is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

KESS AND PERILLI TO GRAPPLE

The wrestling fans will have an opportunity this evening to see Joe Perilli, the wild man of Nashua, in action against Cyclone Kess. Both are fast men and they should make an interesting match. Kess is well known here and the fans know that he is one of the best men of his weight, but Perilli, who has been a drawing card in Boston and Manchester has never shown here.

He is said to be of the type of John Kilbuck and aggressive, but in Kess he will find somebody that is not much afraid of anybody he tackles. The match is staged under the directions of Bill Dryden.

NAVY WAR HISTORY WRITERS ASSIGNED

An official history of the navy's work in the war and in preparation for it is to be officially compiled.

A Central History Board has been established in Washington with Rear Admiral Kimball, well known here, in charge. Friday Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood, commanding the First Naval District, appointed a board of local officers to prepare all data and matters of historical interest for the Eastern New England District.

Lieut. Commander Charles S. Ripley, district recorder, and whose force has kept the "log" for every day since the district was established, is the senior member. His assistants are Lieutenants T. P. Harrison, for years a Boston newspaper man; Earl R. Miller, R. P. Kempton, the headquarters force commander, and R. M. Hong, pay corps, who has also been assistant until the director.

All matters that can be well be retained in narrative form, especially events and details of heroism. The plan is to be covered in from Dec. 16, 1914, to the end of war activities. Special instructions are given that the exact facts be told in each case, that the data be accurate. The list of subjects includes German propaganda and espionage, among other matters, one point emphasized in the instructions is that details of importance and interest of historical interest not covered by the official records be included in the local report.

Similar boards are to be appointed by all Naval districts and fleets.

WOMAN FOILS AN AUTO THIEF

Boston, Feb. 9.—Presence of mind on the part of Mrs. Everett W. Crawford, 12 Copsey street, Newton, and her daughter prevented the loss of her automobile Friday afternoon. She was standing in a store at 250 Washington street Newton, when she saw a man jump into her car from the street side and start the engine.

She ran from the store, leaped on the running board and attempted to shut off the switch. The man was fighting her in the meantime and was attempting to throw her from the running board. She screamed, according to her account the man leaped from the car, ran to Nonantum street and disappeared. The auto thief was described as being between 19 and 20 years of age.

What a League of Nations Means.

The visit of Ex-Governor Charles S. Whitman of New York to Concord recently, and his address to the Legislature were matters of interest not only to the law makers and the people of the Capital City, but to the people of the state as well.

In his address Mr. Whitman dealt with the question of a League of Nations, the formation of which is one of the most responsible duties devolving upon the delegates to the Peace Conference. It is the hope of the nations represented in the conference, and if all civilized nations, that the step to be taken will result in preventing wars of consequence in the future, and in the promotion of peace and harmony among all the peoples of the earth. No one is so optimistic or blind to the frailties of human nature as to predict that war will be absolutely eliminated by the formation of a League of Nations, but there is reason to believe, and it is very generally believed, that such an organization will be able to do much toward preserving the peace of the world and insuring freedom and justice to the nations, great and small.

It is not to be assumed, however, that the members of the League will be prepared or expected to renounce their individuality or their individual rights. While in a certain sense and for certain purposes the League of Nations will be a partnership, it will be one in which the various members will attend to their own business in their own way. Not until rights are trampled upon will there be cause for action of the League, but when the need arises it will be ready to act fairly and firmly in the interest of all.

Mr. Whitman made very clear his views on the functions of the League, and with these it is probable that a vast majority of the people of all the nations will agree. The Legislature agreed unanimously, as was shown by a resolution passed without a dissenting vote. Said Mr. Whitman: "The right of one people to think and act as a nation must not be surrendered or reduced. We must not surrender our right to control immigration into this country; foreign interference with or foreign control of the affairs of this hemisphere cannot be tolerated, and there is an inherent, ineradicable opposition on the part of the people of this country to interfering with the affairs of other continents save when, as during the recent war, embattled hosts fought to preserve the sanctity of the given word."

That is a simple and comprehensive statement of the needs in the case, and without doubt it is substantially the view that will be taken by the Peace Conference, which has met to perform one of the greatest pieces of work in the history of nations.

It is the hope of the world that its labors may be successful, and with such a universal hope and readiness to co-operate failure would appear to be practically impossible.

A Boston paper devotes considerable space to the necktie worn by Harris M. Young, the veteran clerk of the New Hampshire House, on the occasion of the recent visit of ex-Governor Whitman of New York, describing it as a creation calculated to throw the rainbow and kaleidoscope into the shade. But, judging from what is said about the style of "men's wear" for the coming season, this tie may, perhaps, be regarded not merely as a four-in-hand, but as a forerunner.

There is a bill before the Legislature providing for the support of indigent parents by sons or daughters able to provide such support. Such a law has been tried in at least one state, but its success, if any it has had, has never been widely heralded. Men and women who will neglect helpless parents will usually manage to find some way to evade a law demanding the performance of filial duties.

The world is rapidly speeding up. A new racing car is to be tried out soon at Daytona, Fla., and it is predicted that a record of 2 1/2 miles a minute will be made. Whether or not a cannon ball will be used as a pace maker is not stated.

New Hampshire College's valentine will be a visit from the Legislature, which this year will act as a "delegation of the whole." Faculty and students are preparing for the event, which should be a red letter day for Durham.

Just what California expects to gain from a referendum on the prohibition question the people of that state probably know, but it is difficult for anybody else to understand.

The Legislature would be justified in postponing action on the proposed licensing of cats until more important matters have been disposed of.

The price of coal has dropped one dollar a ton in Boston. This is encouraging in spite of the fact that it is $11 now.

WONDERFUL
TRIBUTE TO COL.
ROOSEVELT

Washington, Feb. 9.—In solemn services within the House chamber today the nation's leaders and representatives of foreign governments paid tribute to the memory of Theodore Roosevelt. Members of Congress, Supreme Court Justices, members of the cabinet, army and navy officers, and diplomats of many nations heard Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, praise Roosevelt as a statesman and as a man.

Crowded galleries and the throng of men and women who could not gain admission testified to the personal feeling for the man whose death shocked the world. It was this to which Senator Lodge, a close friend of the man he eulogized, referred when he spoke these words in the altitudes of the House chamber:

"A tower is fallen, a star is set! Alas! Alas for China!"

"The words of lamentation from the old Irish ballad, which in boyhood we used to recite, must I think, have risen to many lips when the world was told that Theodore Roosevelt was dead. But whatever the phrases the thought was instant and everywhere."

"Various expressions, you heard it in the crowds about the bulletin boards, from the man in the street and the man on the railroads, from the farmer in the fields, the women in the shops, in the factories, and in the homes. The pulpit found in his life a text for sermons. The judge on the bench, the child at school, alike mourned for a moment conscious of a loss. The cry of sorrow came from men and women of all conditions, high and low, rich and poor, from the learned and the ignorant, from the multitude who had loved and followed him, and from those who had opposed and resisted him. The newspapers pushed aside the absorbing reports of the events of these fateful days and gave pages to the man who had died."

"Flashed beneath the ocean and through the air went the announcement of Theodore Roosevelt's death, and back came a world-wide response from courts and cabinets, from press and people, in other and far-distant lands. Through it all ran a golden thread of personal feeling, which gleamed so rarely in the tender familiarity of public grief. It would seem that here was a man, a private citizen, conspicuous by no office, with no glitter of power about him, no ability to reward or punish, gone from earthly life who must have been unusual even among the leaders of men and who thus dominated our nation's consideration."

Senator Lodge was the only speaker and the services were simple. Prayers by the Senate and House chaplains and anthems and patriotic hymns by the Marine Band added to the stirring spiritual nature of the services.

"We can not approach Theodore Roosevelt along the beaten paths of eulogy or simply ourselves with the empty civilities of commonplace funeral tributes," said Senator Lodge "for he did not make his life journey over main-traveled roads nor was he over commonplace. Cold and pompous formalities would be insulting to him who was devoid of affectation and who never was self-conscious, and to whom posturing to draw the public gaze seemed not only repellent but vulgar. In his spirit of devotion to truth's simplicity, I shall try to speak of him today."

Referring to Roosevelt's inheritance of comparative wealth, Senator Lodge said: "He lacked the spur of necessity to pick the sides of his intent."

"Theodore Roosevelt put behind him temptation to a life of sports and pleasure, to a life of ease, to an unmanly career in one of the fine arts, perhaps, to a money making business."

"How he refused to tread the pleasant paths that opened to him on all sides and took the hard way which led over the rough road of toil and action, his life discloses."

Mr. Lodge outlined the life of the man who came to play such a big part in the nation's life. With delicate health and near-sightedness, in childhood, he became by sheer hard work an athlete and a rifle shot. This was typical, said Mr. Lodge. He spoke of how Roosevelt persisted in the unusual; how he made himself a national figure in one year at the age of 21 while serving in the New York state legislature; how he fought and won for civil service reforms when civil service was scoffed at by influential leaders and of how he applied himself strenuously to the task of expelling frauds and politics from the New York police force, through which "a purely local office became national in its hands, and his picture appeared in the shops of European cities."

As Assistant Secretary of the Navy, when he ordered Dewey to prepare for Manila Bay before war came, as colonel of the Rough Riders' regiment at San Juan, as governor of New York, as vice president, and as President, Mr. Roosevelt's career was traced.

After reviewing the Roosevelt administration, touching upon many of the most important features, including Roosevelt's part in world politics which won the Nobel Peace Prize for the man "headed at the beginning on account of his combative spirit," and his fight for a larger government control of railroad and against the political influence of combinations of capital, Senator Lodge added:

"In the Panama Canal he left the most enduring as it was the most visible, monument of his administration. Much criticized at the moment for his action in regard to it, which time since then has justified and which history will praise, the great fact remains that the canal is there. He said himself that he made up his mind that it was his duty to establish the canal and have the debate about it afterwards, which seemed to him better than to begin with indefinite debates and have no canal at all. This is a view which posterity will accept."

Referring to Roosevelt's fight for preparedness before the United States entered the world war, Senator Lodge said:

"He would have had us protest against action at the very beginning of 1917 when Belgium was invaded. It would have had us go to war when the murders of the Lusitania were perpetrated. He tries to stir the soul and rouse the spirit of the American people, and despite every obstacle he did awaken them, so that when their hour came, in April, 1917, a large proportion of the American people were even then ready in spirit and in hope."

"How telling his work has been is proved by the confession his countrymen, for when he died, the one discordant note, the only harsh word came from the German press. Of many know whose voice it was, had more powerfully than any other called Americans to the battle in the name of freedom and civilization."

Because he was not permitted to go to Europe at the head of a body of soldiers, said Mr. Lodge, Roosevelt "was denied the reward which he would have ranked above all other the great prize of death in battle." "He lived to see right prevail," continued the Senator. "He lived to see civilization triumph over organized barbarism, and there was great joy in his heart. In all his last days he thought which filled his mind was to secure a peace which should render Germany forever harmless and advance the cause of ordered freedom in every land and among every race. He occupied him to the exclusion of everything else except what he called 'the what we like to call Americanism. There was no hour down to the end when he would not turn aside from everything else to preach the doctrine of Americanism, of the principles and the faith upon which American government rested and which all true Americans should wear in their hearts of honor."

He was a great patriot, a great man; above all, a great American. His country was the thing, mastering passion of his life, from the beginning even into the end.

"What a man was he is ever more important than what he did, Theodore Roosevelt always believed that character was of greater worth and moment than anything else. He possessed abilities of the first order, which he set aside to make room for his sense of duty. He was a man of great power, a man of great will, a man of great vision, a man of great courage, a man of great faith, a man of great hope, a man of great love, a man of great devotion, a man of great sacrifice, a man of great honor."

Appraising Theodore Roosevelt's abilities, Mr. Lodge said in part:

"He had a powerful, well-trained, yet active mind, he thought clearly, independently, and with originality and imagination. These great gifts are sustained by an extraordinary power of acquisition, joined to a greater quickness of apprehension, a greater swiftness in setting upon the sense of a question, than I have ever imagined to see in any other man."

"He had a capacity for concentration which enabled him to read with remarkable rapidity anything which he took up."

"He knew and held details always at his command, but he was never mastered by them. He never failed to see the forest on account of the trees or to see the forest on account of the houses."

"In speaking as in writing, he was always full of force and vigor."

"He had a large capacity for administration, clearness of vision, promptness in decision, and a thorough apprehension of what constituted efficient organization."

"The first requisite of leadership is to lead, and that ability Theodore Roosevelt possessed in full measure. His instinct was always to say 'come' rather than 'go' and he had the talent of command."

"He also had the rare gift of arresting attention sharply and suddenly, a very precious attribute."

"Roosevelt was always advancing, always struggling to make things better, to carry some much-needed reform, and help humanity to a larger chance, to a firmer condition, to a happier life. Moreover, he looked always for an ethical question. He was at his best when he was fighting the battle of right against wrong."

"The criticism most commonly made upon Theodore Roosevelt was that he was impulsive and impetuous, that he acted without thinking. He would have been the last to claim infallibility. His head did not turn when fame came to him and charmes of admiration sounded in his ears, for he was neither vain nor credulous. He knew that he made mistakes and never hesitated to admit them to be mistakes, and to correct them or put them behind him when satisfied they were such. But he never wasted time in mourning, expiating or vainly regretting them. It is also true that the middle way did not attract him. He was apt to go far, both in praise and censure, although nobody could analyze quality and balance them justly in judgment better than he."

"He spoke out with the most unreserved frankness at all times and in all companies."

"When he had reached his conclusion he acted quickly and drove hard at his object and this it was, probably, which gave an impression that he acted sometimes hastily and thoughtlessly, which was a complete misapprehension of the man. His action was emphatic, but emphasis implies reflection, not thoughtlessness."

"He had no hostility to a man because he had succeeded in business or because he had accumulated a fortune. He had but one standard, one test, and that was whether a man, rich or poor, was an honest man, a good citizen, and a good American."

"Theodore Roosevelt had the largest personal following ever attained by any man in our history. By personal following is meant here that which supports and sustains and goes with a man simply because he is himself, a following which does not care whether their leader and chief is in office or out of office, which is with him and behind him because they, one and all, believe in him and love him and are ready to stand by him for the sole and simple reason that they have perfect faith that he will lead them where they wish and there they ought to go."

"Roosevelt's courage and sense of humor drew many to him, Senator Lodge observed."

"No man ever had a more abundant sense of humor—joyous, prepossessing humor—and it never deserted him," said the Senator. "Even at the most serious and even perilous moments, if there was a gleam of humor anywhere he saw it and rejoiced and helped him see it with it over the rough places. He loved fun, loved to joke and chaff, and what is more uncommon, greatly enjoyed being chaffed himself. Even more generally effective than his humor was the universal knowledge that Roosevelt had no secrets from the American people."

Another quality, "homely, generous humanity" was emphasized by Senator Lodge.

"He never by any chance bored the American people," he said. "They might laugh at him or laugh with him, they might like what he said, they might agree with him or disagree with him, but they were never wearied of him and he never failed to interest them. He was never heavy, laborious or dull."

"No man ever prized sentiment or acted sentimentally more than he. He preached unceasingly the familiar motto which he at the bottom of both family and public life."

Concluding, Senator Lodge said: "Theodore Roosevelt's ideal of public service was to be found in his life, and as his life drew to its close he had to meet his ideal of sacrifice face to face. All his sons went from him to the war and one was killed upon the field of honor."

"This is not the place to speak of his private life, but within that sacred circle no man was ever more fortunate in the utter devotion of a noble wife, and the passionate love of his children. The absolute purity and beauty of his family life tell us why the public and interest which his fellow countrymen felt in him were always touched with the warm light of love. In the home, so dear to him, in his sleep, death came, and—"

"So sudden for Truth passed over and all the trumpets sounded for him on the other side."

ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL SERVICE AT THE
'NORTH CHURCH

In accordance with President Wilson's proclamation that Sunday be observed throughout the country as a memorial day for ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, a high mass of requiem was celebrated Sunday morning at Christ church by Rev. Charles L. V. Byrne, the pastor. This service constituted the principal memorial service for Mr. Roosevelt in this city, and it was appropriately held at Christ church, for Mr. Roosevelt at the time of the celebration there of the signing of the Russo-Japanese treaty of peace in 1905 had planned to come there and was greatly interested in the church. A delegation of soldiers and sailors were present at the service as well as the members of Storer Park, No. 1, G. A. R., together with a very large and representative congregation. The altar was draped in mourning and the vestibule room, by the rectory in the celebration of the mass were those for the services for the dead. In his sermon the pastor called attention to the fact that Mr. Roosevelt was a wonderful man in that he alone seemed to touch life at all points, and that above all his achievements as a leader the example of right living and planning which he set to the youth of America made him worthy of a high and enduring place in the hearts of every true American.

Following the benediction, taps were sounded by a bugler and three volleys were fired by a military detachment outside the church. The whole service was very impressive and beautiful, and all who were present felt that the great ex-President had been fittingly remembered by the people of Portsmouth.

HE HAD THE COURAGE OF
HIS CONVICTIONS

The Editor of the Chronicle:—

While listening to one of the splendid sermons on the life of Theodore Roosevelt preached yesterday the writer was surprised and disappointed to hear no reference to his loyal support of Equal Suffrage thru all these years. Not only did Mr. Roosevelt speak and vote for Woman Suffrage when a member of the New York Legislature but he also recommended it in his inaugural message when he became Governor. In an article in the last Metropolitan Magazine he says: "And there should be no further delay in giving the women the right to vote by Federal Amendment. It is an absurdity longer to haggle about the matter."

And almost the last letter he wrote was one on January 3rd, to Senator George D. Moses:

My dear Senator Moses:—
 You know how fond I am of Cabot Lodge, and I think he has done wonderful work during the past three months in international matters."

But it is a misfortune from the standpoint of party expediency, that no and Senator Wadsworth of New York and some of your New England Senators should have been so very bitter about woman suffrage. I earnestly hope you can see your way clear to support the National Amendment. It is coming anyhow, and it ought to come. When states like New York and Illinois adopt it, it can't be called a wild cat experiment. I very earnestly hope you can see your way clear to support the amendment.

Faithfully yours,

Theodore Roosevelt.

The suffragist of the country will always hold Theodore Roosevelt in grateful remembrance for the help he gave when friends were comparatively few and for that help fearlessly continued to the very end.

A grateful Suffragist.

NAVY YARD NOTES

Letters From Parents.

Private Stewart and Florestine of the Marine band are in receipt of letters from the parents of Paul Dow, the lad whom they saved from drowning in the South Mill Pond two weeks ago. The letters contain the sincere thanks of parents and touch on the gallant work performed by the men in the rescue.

Lost $140. On Street.

One of the Marine Guard at the local navy yard reported the loss of a $140. money order to the police today. The guard thinks the order was dropped on Congress street.

Chaplain Speaks at Dover.

Chaplain McNair of the Charlestown navy yard, addressed a large audience in the St. John's Methodist church at Dover on Sunday evening. He spoke on the Marines at Chateau Thierry.

Improving the Life Buoy.

Another improvement has been made in the life buoy, the yard paper, which will begin with the next issue and will include a new subject for the front page of each issue hereafter. A picture of the industrial department officers will appear for the first time in connection with the paper as a frontispiece.

In Washington.

Lieut. Comdr. Thomas M. Osborne of the Naval Prison has gone to Washington in connection with the matter concerning the disappearance of Chief Yeoman Providence.

Safety Committee to Meet.

The safety committee of 15 comprising a delegation from each ship will shortly meet to carry out further plans of the organization.

At the Reception.

Capt. L. S. Adams, of the Industrial Department, and Accounting Officer H. T. Soudin of the Pay Corps, were among the guests at the complimentary reception and ball tendered Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood at the Copley Plaza in Boston on Friday evening.

MEDICAL MEN TO SEEK IMPROVEMENTS
AT THE HOSPITAL

The medical men of this city are said to be getting active in their demand for improvements at the Portsmouth Hospital. The general public as well as the doctors are also interested in this matter and it is thought that something was done to enlarge the institution to put it on a footing with the hospitals of other cities with such population as Portsmouth. With all due respect to the board of managers and the good work of the hospital in the past, it is 20 years behind similar institutions and there is no good reason why the additional buildings proposed before the war should be erected, if no new buildings are to come some effort should be made to spend some of the money on hand in numerous ways.

Why run the hospital to make money?

This will be a busy week socially.

PARSONS
The HatterEDITOR O'BRIEN
ON ROOSEVELT

Concord, Feb. 10.—Over 1000 citizens, as many as the editor would hold, gathered in the South Congregational church Sunday evening to honor the memory of the late ex-President Theodore Roosevelt. Every seat in the church had been taken fully 20 minutes before 8:15 p.m., the hour set for the opening of the service. Editor Robert Lincoln O'Brien of the Boston Herald was the principal speaker, and his address, which brought out many incidents in the life of the beloved ex-president will long be remembered by those in attendance. Mr. O'Brien's personal acquaintance with Roosevelt made him especially fitted for his part of the program, and in glowing terms he paid tribute to one of the greatest presidents the United States has ever had.

EDITORIAL
COMMENT

"It Might Have Been"
 (From the Baltimore American)
 The speculation as to who is going to be the first president of the German Republic must make highly interesting reading at Amerongen.

Away Ahead of the Game
 (From the Philadelphia North American)

It is understood it is because Mr. Wilson is so earnest over avoiding future wars that any plans for holding the present one to a close have as yet been unable to attract his attention.

Plenty of Wheat
 (From the Toronto Mail and Empire)

It is said in Russia that not more than ten per cent of the 1918 wheat crop has been moved out of the West. It is not a question of finance, since the victory loan provides funds, but evidently one of getting Europe to take large quantities without delay.

Where Women Are "Lady-Like"
 (From the Cleveland Plain Dealer)
 French women are asking for the ballot, but they have not yet thought of burning President Poincaré's speeches as a method of obtaining it.

WHY NOT TURN ON THE LIGHTS?

The Boston and Maine railroad evidently has not heard that the orders of the fuel board, curtailing on light, have been cancelled. The railroad is still saving on light at the depot and it is evident that the large electric lights, recently put in there, are burned at night.

Why did the company go to the expense of placing these lights about the depot? So far the lights have been more ornamental than useful.

RED MEN NOTICE.

The regular meeting of the Massachusetts Tribe, No. 141, O. R. M., will be held Monday Feb. 10 at Pythian Hall, Congress street at eight o'clock. All sojourning Red Men at ship yards and navy yard are cordially invited to attend.

PUZZLE FAN'S DEPARTMENT

PUZZLE..... 10.....
"Christian Shore" spent some part of the day figuring out one of our "twister" puzzles and we give the result below.

Puzzle Editor:
Just a little solution by algebra means to your puzzle of the 8th which reads as follows:

Quide number 59 into 2 parts that, if the greater part be divided by 7 and the less multiplied by 3, the sum of the quotient and the product will make 50.

Well, this is the way I'd do it.

Let x=greater part.

50-x=smaller part.

When x-7 plus 3(50-x)=50.

Clearing of fractions we have:

x plus 150-21x=50.

-20x equals -100

x equals 5=greater part.

50-x equals 45=smaller part.

Proof: 45 divided by 7 is 6 and 15

multiplied by 3 is 45 and adding the two together get 50.

Tell your fans to wake up and give us some hard ones.

Christian Shore.

There's a large number of people interested in the puzzle that are published daily in this column and if you have a puzzle that you consider a "twister" send it in. Be sure to send the answer along with the puzzle, on a different sheet of paper if possible.

Puzzle Editor:

The answer to the problem of subtracting 45 from 45 and leave 45 is easily done. I have known it for 30 years. This is the solution.

4 5 7 6 3 4 3 2 1=45

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9=45

8 6 1 1 5 7 6 3 2=45

LABOR AND WOMENS SUFFRAGE

Subject Before the Sunday Afternoon Forum--Send Telegram to Senator Moses

The Open Forum of the Metal Trades Council is increasing in interest and in number of attendants and each succeeding speaker seems to make a stronger appeal to his audience.

The musical features was supplied by a pianist and a violinist. The absence of the promised orchestra was satisfactorily explained and assurance was given that on the following Sunday the orchestra would be in evidence as the contribution of the Musicians' Union.

Chairman Henry introduced John P. Durke, who was to present organized labor's attitude on Woman Suffrage.

The address was replete with sterling facts, stirring appeals, convincing argument, eloquent oratory, inspiring invective, but nothing blatant, vindictive or repellent.

The speaker began by pointing out the need of proper instruction to remove misunderstanding and unimpaired opposition, no error but some sober brow would blink it and adorn it with a text, and no righteous reformation but some wiseacre would oppose it with subtle sophistries and insincerity. Every pioneer, every inventor has been denied, and denied slightly, and it is difficult at times to define the line of demarcation between genius and insanity.

In reciting the history of the locomotive he quoted the absurd objections of fifty years ago, and held up to ridicule the action of the New Hampshire Legislators and Senator Moses on the Suffrage question from the stand point of fifty years hence. In the opinion of the multitude the first engine could not be started; when it was started it could not be stopped.

After detailing the history of the suffrage movement and enlarging such of its leaders as Susan B. Anthony, Lucy Stone, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott the speaker declared that in University of Wisconsin women suffrage was no longer a debatable question but a desirable and accomplished fact.

Men do not make revolutions. Revolutions thrust forward their leaders. Leaders are not causes—they are effects. The promulgation of the suffrage leaders is the result of woman's demand for a fuller, freer life. The full achievement of these demands is not to be accomplished in a moment. When one considers the years required by the American colonies to reach a status government it is apparent that to demand that the Russian Revolution assume permanency over night.

The adoption by states of a general suffrage was too slow a process, and a National Constitutional amendment to cover them all has been proposed. The proposition is now before the United States Senate, and will come to a vote on Monday, looking for two votes of the requisite two-thirds.

Susan B. Anthony worked in a cotton factory and was subsequently a school teacher and she realized the value of the ballot in securing industrial rights of women workers. By use of the power of the ballot the working men have compelled reduction of hours of toil and the enactment of compensation laws. Men and women have been taught in the bitter school of experience the need of some power to protect and the possession of the right of franchise is that power—power for defense and offense.

The wife who manages the household is the greatest financier on earth. She makes a meagre wage provide the essential comforts of life, and she needs the ballot that she may rebuke the lying politicians who have promised her husband to reduce the high cost of living.

When sister votes first-class buildings will not be used for work shops and dangerous machinery will disappear and the underpaid teachers will receive adequate salaries.

When mothers vote human flesh and blood will no longer feed the cannon and grim visage war will cease the earth no more. The International League of Motherhood will give force and effect to the edict which forbade to wage through slaughter to a throne and shut the gates of mercy up behind.

The speakers closed by quoting Emerson's prophetic vision of the working man's and woman's coming world beautiful, illumined by the star of hope.

A motion made by Mr. Martin Kimball, President of the New Hampshire Equal Suffrage Association, and seconded by Charles W. Croome, secretary of the Portsmouth Socialist Local, was adopted by unanimous vote that a telegram be sent to Senator Moses demanding that he vote for the suffrage amendment.

The following message was despatched:

Portsmouth, N. H., Feb. 9, 1919
Senator George W. Moses,
Washington, D. C.

By unanimous vote of the Metal Trades Councils Open Forum held today 1919 citizens of Portsmouth demand that you vote for the suffrage amendment.

Please answer to the committee.

ROOSEVELT EULOGIZED IN ALL THE CHURCHES

In compliance with the request of President Wilson that Sunday be observed as Roosevelt day, the local churches without an exception made some mention of Col. Roosevelt.

At the Christ Church there was a memorial service, with special music and with a delegation from the army and navy. At the other churches the pastors either devoted their sermon to some phrase of Col. Roosevelt's life or devoted some time to his life work.

ALL NOW WORKING UNDER THE NEW WAGE SCHEDULE

The draftsmen at the Portsmouth navy yard are now working under the new schedule of wages, as advised and recommended by a board of officers in the Industrial Department some time ago. According to reports Portsmouth navy yard was the only one that was favored with the increase of pay without a hitch of some kind. This comes from the fact that every recommendation made by the local yard officer came back approved by the navy department. The draftsmen are now working under the same rates of pay given men of that work employed by the Emergency Fuel Corporation and private ship-building concerns throughout the country.

To meet after war conditions a general reduction has been made in Domestic Wash Fabrics, Cotton Sheets and Pillow Cases.

The D. F. Borthwick Store

SERVICE FOR ENLISTED MEN

Rev. Elmer F. Newell, acting pastor at the Methodist church, gave the address Sunday afternoon at the meeting of the enlisted men at the Y. M. C. A. building.

The speaker chose as his subject "Character Building" and said that one should be sure to build on this right sort of a foundation. He emphasized the need of being a Christian and said no one should think he could leave Christ out of his life and work independently as then he could not have the right sort of character. He referred to several of the great generals in the European war, whose faith in God was so strong and who sought the house of God and prayed for victory.

Secretary L. C. Schmalensted of the Y. M. C. A. led the song service which opened the meeting. At the close of the service a fellowship lunch of sandwiches, jelly roll and coffee was served by the young women clerks of the Borthwick dry goods store.

MOOSE CARNIVAL FINANCIAL SUCCESS

The L. O. O. M. carnival that closed Saturday evening was one of the most successful social affairs ever attempted by this organization. Not only were the booths well patronized, but the attractions were both original and interesting.

A statement of the financial earnings of the project cannot be given for a few days, until all the obligations have been paid, but the committee says that a goodly sum will be realized by the local order.

FUNERAL NOTICE

The funeral of Mrs. Mary P. Spina will be held from her late home on Madison street Monday afternoon at two o'clock. Friends invited.

St. John's Parish Club cleared over $50 at its recent parcel post sale in the parish house.

TRIED TO SELL STOLEN AUTO IN THIS CITY

Police Get Thieves and Stolen Machine Here on Saturday.

Max Wolfson and John Deresh arrested by the police here on Sunday and held on suspicion proved to be a pair wanted by the Boston police on the charge of stealing an automobile which they attempted to dispose of to a local man, who thought they did not look good and reported the case to the police. Their arrest soon followed but they strongly denied that the auto had been stolen. The car is a Buick and according to Supt. Crowley of the Boston police, was stolen from Franklin street, Boston, Saturday night about 7:30. They drove the car to Lowell, where they remained until Sunday.

Tuesday when they learned that the Boston police were looking them up, admitted that the car was stolen property. They both belong in Chelsea and one of them has worked at the Atlantic Corporation.

A Boston officer came here for them this afternoon.

THE HERALD HEARS

That it is reported in labor circles that the carpenters and masons wage schedule will cut for one dollar an hour on May 1, 1919.

That the city of Dover has passed an ordinance which requires snow to be removed from the sidewalks in the business district by the occupant, on person having care of buildings bordering on land in the district.

That if the snow falls in the day time it must be cleared in three hours; if in the night time it must be removed before ten o'clock the next forenoon. The fine is not less than $2 or more than $10.

That for every hour after the snow remains on the sidewalk the fine shall be not less than $1 nor more than $10.

That this ordinance includes snow falling from any building or which accumulates on the sidewalk from any cause.

That if we had much snow in this city such an ordinance would keep somebody busy with the shovel or broke financially over the snow which falls from the building at the corner of Daniel street and Market square.

That two women were injured there this winter by falling ice and snow and not a thing has been done to protect the public.

That it would require some time to find the man who lost put a bit of ice in the drinking tanks of the passenger cars on the Portsmouth branch of the R. & M.

That if the liquor laws committee at Concord want evidence of phony and killing drinks which are flooding the market, the police department could easily provide the same.

That the R. & M. is said to have hit a snag in taking off some of the freights on the Portland division.

That the K. of C. minstrel, the first to be given by that organization will bring out a big crowd tonight.

That the tug of war team which formerly represented the Portsmouth Brewing Co. have not given up the game and would like to meet a team from the Atlantic shipyard for fun or money.

That police officer Murphy picked up a small child on Congress street Saturday who had got away from her parents in a store.

That she came from Kittery and got separated in the first store they entered by quietly walking out and watching the sights on Congress street.

That she didn't seem to care what time she got back home across the river.

That the officer later located her father and mother in the jam at the five and ten cent store.

That there seems to be many conflicting stories about the big catches of fish on Lake Winnepesaukee by the Boston and Maine passenger men.

That among their friends in this city who also labor for the R. & M. it is whispered that there are more fish in the lake now than ever.

That another bill has been introduced in the legislature for the selection of a state flower, making six bills so far.

That the committee on agriculture admits that it is flummoxed by the many bills and the whole lot may be killed.

That the move to have only letters on motor fire apparatus license plates to save time and money might apply to police patrol wagons in cities where the departments have them in operation.

That the members of the Rockingham County delegation in the legislature inspected the county farm today.

That the entire legislature will go to the New Hampshire college at Durham on Friday, Feb. 15.

That this trip means something in railroad fare if all the Senate and House members go.

That 426 people traveling on a railroad today with the advance rates of fare will give the R. & M. a few extra nickels.

That there is considerable agitation among the Rockingham County members of the legislature on the question of sending all prisoners to the county farm instead of placing them in jails.

That the same agitation is going on among the Strafford County delegation.

That the fact that a well known local automobile owner is a good fellow, made trouble for him in Dover a few nights ago.

That he had previously told one of his close friends to take his auto any time he saw it out on the street if he wanted a short ride without hauling him up and asking permission.

That his friend saw the machine standing near a lunch room at Dover and took advantage of the owner's kindness.

That the owner forgot what he had told his friend and concluded that the car had been stolen.

That he had the police of Dover and this city on the run for the supposed stolen car.

That while the hunt was on the car was returned after being gone less than an hour.

That regardless of the permit given by the owner the other man was staggered with fright when he heard what had happened.

That he was so frightened he started to walk back to Portsmouth and got as far as Dover Point when a machine picked him up.

That Dr. Deaver of Philadelphia has a new guide to his fee for surgical operations.

That if the patient says he has appendicitis, he charges $100, and if he calls it appendicitis he hits him for $1,000.

That some people claim a man cannot be a Christian who smokes.

That this depends a good deal on what brand of cigars he puffs on.

That the Rev. Arthur Conway of Lowell Baptist church recently spoke on "Religion Cakes," or "Will Our Soldier Boys Bring Home any Cookies on This Religion?"

That the boys would rather have them on their religion than on their person.

That the pastor could have shortened up his text by calling it "Religious Hugs."

Washburn is a thoroughly competent official and has given valuable service during the war.

POLICE COURT

Edgar McNamara, a navy man arrested on Daniel street on Saturday night, charged with committing a nuisance, pleaded not guilty in the municipal court this morning. The case was continued until this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Charles Clay, one of the late arrivals on the R. & M. on Saturday paid $11.50 for drunkenness.

The same thing happened to Antonio Ristukera, for the same offense. Marcel Tzchike was arrested while breaking on Russell street. There was evidence that Jakey had been substituted for vodka and the charge of beverage cost the Russell street resident $10.74.

STILL UNCONSCIOUS AT THE HOSPITAL

Registration Card Leads to Identity of Charlestown Man.

The unknown man picked up unconscious on Deer street on Saturday afternoon proved to be Richard Barrett of Park street, Charlestown, Mass., from a registration card found on his person at the Portsmouth hospital. He is suffering from a fracture as the result of a fall on Deer street and his condition gives fear of his recovery. Nobody witnessed the injury and nothing further can be learned locally about the man. He is about 30 years of age. The police at Charlestown have been notified with hopes of finding some relative of the injured man.

DID BROWNLEE GET AWAY WITH LIBERTY BONDS?

Chief Yeoman Brownlee of the Naval Prison, who is missing, is said to have made an even greater haul than at first reported. The Herald is unable to obtain the facts. It is reported that the Liberty Bonds owned by the prisoners were in the safe which Brownlee locked when he left. Commander Osborne left for Washington on Sunday night. The U. S. Secret Service are now in charge of the case.
